

Scavenger Hunt

Source(s): Kathy Clawson and Sidnie Seaward
Romig

This idea was submitted by several people. It gets kids out of their seats seeking signatures. Time the activity and have prizes for the student who has the most, second most, etc. Make sure you have the winner point to the student who signed the paper and announce what they have in common. A more academic version that you can use as a pretest of knowledge is on the reverse side called a People Search.

1. Someone who has more than four siblings _____
2. Someone born in a different country _____
3. Someone who is a vegetarian _____
4. Someone who is a different religion than you _____
5. Someone who has a dog _____
6. Someone who has a cat _____
7. Someone who's an only child _____
8. Someone who has an exotic pet _____
9. Someone of another race _____
10. Someone who has traveled out of the country _____
11. Someone who speaks a different language _____
12. Someone who likes the Dixie Chicks _____
13. Someone who has red hair _____
14. Someone who had all A's last year _____
15. Someone who has glasses _____
16. Someone who has the same favorite book as you _____
17. Someone who has the same favorite movie as you _____
18. Someone born in the same month as you _____