Tip #13: Happy Holidays

Thursday morning... I am sitting at my computer thinking about what educational tip I should send to you this week. Really the only thing on my mind today is how thankful I am that I work with such supportive and talented teachers. Your positive energy and commitment to our students and their families is never-ending. Your job responsibilities are undeniably overwhelming, yet you continue to reach out for new ideas and strategies. Your literacy questions keep me researching and evaluating my own practices. You are so appreciated, and I know we don't say that enough to one another.

Have a restful two week break. Read a good book, listen to inspirational music, enjoy time with your own family, and try to avoid grading papers!
