Pardon Our Dust

Options for Tomorrow is under construction. A group of secondary educators are forming an Advisory Committee to narrow the focus of secondary special education transition issues. We want the topics to be relevant and informative.

In the past this publication has been sent out electronically and we feel that it is not reaching as many folks as we would like. So one of the things we are looking at is how to better distribute this publication.

We plan to publish our next newsletter in January so be watching for our new look.....
