Hopefully our first week of eLearning went well for you and your child. I didn't hear of any major issues, so that was a highlight for my week! I've added a Fireside Read Aloud to our weekly schedule now. I am reading the first books in the Ranger's Apprentice series. It is one I have enjoyed reading with my own children and to my past classes. It has action, adventure, and humor. I hope you enjoy it as much as I have sharing it with young minds all these years.

I will be starting my one-on-one check in sessions with individual students this week. Please just use the same Zoom link we use for class meetings. I will only allow the student who is scheduled into the session at that time. Parents are welcome to join during our scheduled time if they have any specific questions or concerns. Refer to the weekly lesson plan if you forgot your day and time.

I have decided to have students turn assignments in on a weekly basis, so that I can offer feedback every week versus every two weeks. I will accept assignments on Friday, but also understand parents may need the weekend to complete some work. Therefore, I would appreciate requested work be turned in by Sunday evening. It will take Mrs. Keller and I a couple of days to look over and grade, but we will return the graded work the following week when you turn in that week's assignments.
